MALE & FEMALE HAIR LOSS

Hair loss is an extremely common concern that we see in the clinic daily. Although this can be hereditary or part of the natural aging process, there are also a wide range of conditions that can bring on hair loss. In women, some of the most common being pregnancy, thyroid disorders, and anaemia.

Almost all hair loss in men results from male-pattern balding, a hereditary genetic trait that comes from parents. Hair loss can present in thinning hair, baldness, or a receding hairline. In most cases, hair loss can be prevented, but taking early action is important. More recently we have seen a huge influx of patients suffering from post COVID related hair loss. Hair loss can be a very troubling time for many of us, causing severe anxiety and stress.

All patients require consultation prior to treatment. Consultation includes full medical history and will discuss diet, stress, and medications. Scalp is analysed using a trichoscope.
